Welcome

Welcome to A First Look at Ford's Theatre, a festival of new work called "a must-attend event on the D.C. theater scene," and lauded by theatre critics as the launching pad for The American Five by local playwright Chess Jakobs.

Through A First Look, Ford's Theatre showcases plays at various stages of development and engages audiences who are passionate about historic drama and supporting the creation of new plays. The work in the festival includes plays from the Ford's Theatre Legacy Commission initiative, which seeks to celebrate stories that have often been neglected or left out of history books and the theatrical canon.

This year, A First Look presents the commissioned work Springs by Jeanne Sakata. At the heart of this epic story, Sakata explores what it means to belong while keeping faith in a country that has not always kept faith with you. In addition, the festival features new works that explore historically significant events and figures that have contributed to the fabric of America. The spark for Richard Hellen's Providence Spring began when he read a sign on 7th Street that read: "Missing Soldiers Office, 3rd Story, Room 9—Miss Clara Barton." The festival concludes with Young John Lewis: Prodigy of Protest by Psalmayene 24, music by Kokayi. This contemporary and rousing musical reveals the bravery of a mighty historic figure. The musical is part of Mosaic Theatre Company's 2025-26 season.

Stay tuned for Madeline Sayet's The Knife—an upcoming commission exploring the story of Mohegan leader Samson Occom, and the new cohort of Legacy Commissions for 2027.

And I hope you join us in the spring as Ford's celebrates the Semiquincentennial of our country with the classic American musical 1776.

Thank you for supporting the development of new historical plays and for being an integral part of A First Look.

Paul R. Tetreault
Director
Ford's Theatre Society

We are glad that you are joining us at Ford's Theatre today. This is a welcoming and interactive community. Whether you are here to visit our historic site or to see a show, we invite you to be your authentic self.

At Ford's Theatre:

- We are on common ground. We are all here to enjoy a shared experience and though our reactions and responses may vary, we will remain respectful.
- We are creating a live theatrical experience together; audible reactions and responses are welcome. The actors need you to engage with what you see but not to distract them from their performances.
- We also welcome the use of personal communication devices if they help you to better experience the show, but we encourage you to respect the actors' work and the other audience members around you. Please note that the taking of photographs, video or sound recordings of the performance is not permitted.

Set against the shifting landscapes of the early twentieth century, Springs follows Kyusaburo “Harry” Sanada, a young man who leaves Japan in search of a place to build a life shaped by purpose and possibility. From the farms of the West Coast to the fields of an internment camp during WWII, Harry’s knowledge of the land becomes both his livelihood and his lifeline, sustaining his family and the community around him. As he confronts exclusion laws, suspicion and the violence of forced incarceration, Harry holds fast to his belief in what America could be. When he later turns his attention to the Gilroy Hot Springs, he imagines a sanctuary where people might find peace in nature—and in one another. At its heart, Springs asks what it means to belong while keeping faith in a country that has not always kept faith with you.

Set in the years following the Civil War, Providence Spring traces Clara Barton's little-known mission to uncover the fate of thousands of missing Union soldiers. What begins in a modest office on Seventh Street becomes a sweeping journey through bureaucratic resistance, personal animosity and the unexpected allies who help shape her purpose. As Barton brings answers to grieving families, she confronts the reality that while the war has ended, the nation's struggle to fulfill its promise of "a new birth of freedom" is only beginning. Grounded in the power of memory—personal and historical—the play explores why preserving truth matters in a country so often asked to forget.

Set against the turbulent backdrop of the Civil Rights era, Young John Lewis: Prodigy of Protest follows the Congressman's early life and traces how the murder of Emmett Till transformed his understanding of justice and set him on a path of purposeful service. What begins with a young man grappling with the weight of a national tragedy becomes a sweeping journey through grassroots organizing, moral conviction and the mentors who help shape his calling. As he rises to lead the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and works alongside the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., he discovers that the fight for equality demands both courage and unwavering hope. Grounded in memory and movement, the musical explores why ordinary citizens step into extraordinary roles and illuminates the arc that ultimately led him to nearly two decades of influential service in Congress.

Historic Site Visits

A visit to Ford's Theatre traces the story of Abraham Lincoln's presidency, assassination and legacy. Whether for a brief visit or for the full experience, Ford's will deepen your appreciation and understanding of America's 16th president. Admission is free; advance tickets have a convenience fee. The Ford's Theatre campus traditionally includes:

- Museum: Learn about Lincoln's presidency from his inauguration to his arrival at Ford's Theatre the night of April 14, 1865. See artifacts related to his presidency and assassination.
- Theatre: See the recreated historic theatre and learn the key facts of the assassination from National Park Service Rangers.
- Petersen House: Explore Lincoln's final moments in the house where Lincoln died.
- Center for Education and Leadership: See the Aftermath Exhibits exploring what happened following Lincoln's assassination, the hunt for John Wilkes Booth and the lasting impact of Lincoln's legacy.

Our visitation schedule varies. Parts of the campus may not be available at the time of your visit.
